

CROWNHART SAYS MEN MUST BATTLE MONEY TO HELP PROGRESSIVISM

BOB'S MANAGER IS IN THE CITY

La Follette Organization Leader Gives View of the Coming Fight for Party Control

THE SENTIMENT IS ALRIGHT

But Followers of Representative Government Must Work as Well as Think for the Cause

Charles H. Crownhart of Superior who is directing the campaign of Senator R. M. La Follette from Madison headquarters, is in the city today feeling the pulse of La Crosse county. To friends with whom he talked he dropped the inimitable attitude of the politician and asserted with his toothy Rooseveltian smile that the subject was sound as a dollar and had as much use for a doctor as a comet has for two tails.

No formal conference was held. Mr. Crownhart merely calling upon a number of progressive republicans with whom he went over the situation. He found the usual "united front" in this city, and reports that the situation throughout the state is most gratifying. Nowithstanding this fact, however, Mr. Crownhart made plain his appreciation of the fact that favorable sentiment must be vitalized by organized effort if victory is to be insured, and he epitomized his view of the political status in the following terse interview:

The Way It Stands

"The political principles of Senator La Follette are well known. He stands for real representative government. He is for progressive legislation in the interest of all the people. He is opposed to special privilege."

"His record of achievement is the people's guarantee of the future."

"For these principles he will stand in this campaign. His record he will defend; the rights of the people he will champion, now as in the past."

Money in the Saddle

"He will have to meet and overcome the power of many. Special privileges, the powers that prey, the grey wolves, the pirates of commerce—all these will oppose La Follette with all the cunning of their craft. The senator recognizes the power of these interests but he does not fear them."

"In the past the Senator has placed his faith in the common people and he has not failed. He will not fail now."

"In the campaign the interests will depend upon money; the senator will depend upon men. He will be hampered for funds to carry on an educational campaign; but he will go direct to the people and place his case in their hands. His fight is their fight, and neither will fight in vain."

Same Old Forces

"The party of reaction has turned back the hands of time; their clock strikes the hour of 8 years ago. The Eleventh Story League of ill repute is revamped. Its servitors, purveyors and satchel carriers will be abroad in the land. But their badge of servitude will be with them."

"In the campaign, the Senator will welcome as friends in the fight all who believe with him, no matter what their past differences, and with our ranks reformed and closed up, we accept the gauge of battle thrown down by the enemy of the common good."

CAUCUS TO ACT ON BILL TONIGHT

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 25.—Because they don't want to be put on record as being pledged to the postal savings bill which will be framed up by the republican caucus tonight, most of the insurgent members of the house will be absent. The "regular" republicans are not satisfied with a bill affecting only the government and the people, but want to inject into it the bondholders and others (the "system"), and politics will have a more important place in tonight's caucus, the insurgents say, than the interests of the people.

SUFFERS ON CROSS-CONTINENT WALK

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., May 25.—With badly blistered feet and a stiff and sore he could hardly walk from New York to San Francisco and hopes to reduce the Western record, left here early today for Albany. He stated that his condition is as good as he expected it to be and he is even with his schedule.

COTTON TALKS TO SUPERINTENDENTS

Normal School President Delivers Principal Address at Meeting Today

THEIR DUTIES OUTLINED

Labors Should Be Constructive and Sympathetic, Says the Speaker

The address of President Fassett A. Cotton of the La Crosse state normal school today before the convention of the County Superintendents' association which precedes the state convention of county superintendents, was one of the principal events of the session. President Cotton chose for his subject "The County Superintendent and His Work."

Uniform Record Wanted

About forty members of the County Superintendents' association were present at the annual convention this morning. The only new thing proposed was the motion by one of the members after the speech by Superintendent B. F. Olman of West Salem, on the topic "Uniform Records in the County Superintendents' office," that a committee of three be appointed by the chair to consider the matter and make their report at the next convention in September. The committee will be appointed later. The greater part of the morning session was taken up with the discussion of various topics of interest to the county superintendents. No new legislation was proposed. The present officers of the association are S. C. Cushman of Columbia county, president; H. A. Aune of St. Croix county, vice president and Miss Izetta L. Sabeau, secretary.

The following is this afternoon's program:

Business meeting.

Cotton's Address

Regarding the duties of the superintendent he said:

"The county is one of the important units or divisions in the state government; in some respects it is most important. Being such a unit, it naturally determines many things within its borders. The county is responsible for its schools and their proper organization, the principal work of such organization being to bring about equal opportunity for all children. The great claim of the American public school system is that it offers equal opportunity to all. However, there is great disparity between claim and reality. It would probably be impossible to find any one who would

"ST. LOUIS KID" IS FOUND IN LONDON

NEW YORK, May 25.—On the steamer Carmania, which arrived today, were J. M. Shea and J. P. Hanson, detectives from St. Louis, who brought back E. H. Bates, alias Methuselah, the St. Louis Kid, who broke jail in St. Louis in 1901 while serving a 12 year sentence for robbery. He was arrested in London for robbery and while serving a sentence there was recognized by the Bertillon measurements and the St. Louis officials notified. He fought extradition unsuccessfully.

WRECKERS HURRY TO SCENE OF COLLISION

PORT HURON, Mich., May 25.—Wrecking tugs, it is stated today, will immediately make an investigation of the steamer Frank H. Good-year, which lies in two pieces on the bottom of the lake in forty fathoms of water, where she sank with 18 of her crew. It is considered probably that she will be a total loss. Nothing has been heard here so far of an effort to fix the responsibility.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Preparations are being completed for the start on June 10 from New York by the delegates to the fourth Pan-American conference at Buenos Aires, Argentine Republic, which is to be held on July 3. The United States army transport Sumner has been selected by Secretary Knox to carry the delegates to Buenos Aires. The Sumner has been refitted at a large expense and is well adapted for the proposed trip.

PLAINTIFF WINS IN QUARRY CASE

Jury Returns Special Verdict of $7,900 for the Death of Claus Knudsen

That the life of Claus Knudsen, who was killed by falling down the face of Granddad bluff, was worth $7,900, was the verdict of the jury in the case of Mathilda Knudsen vs. the La Crosse Stone company, which has been on trial several days in the circuit court. The special verdict consisted of fifteen questions, which were submitted to the jury late yesterday afternoon. At 8:30 o'clock last evening an agreement had been reached and the sealed verdict was opened in court this morning. The jury placed the blame upon Foreman McBride, when it answered the questions relative to the responsibility. By the verdict the jury holds that the foreman knew that the cliff was in a dangerous condition and failed to inform deceased of this fact.

Immediately after the verdict was returned the attorneys for the defendant made a motion for a new trial, which will be argued before Judge Higbee later.

DIPLOMATS TANGLE OVER PERSIA RIGHTS

ST. PETERSBURG, May 25.—The recent grant by Persia to the German firm of Huesnerman & Mosig of the right to establish regular navigation on Lake Urmiah has developed such a diplomatic tangle that today the Anglo-Russian agreement for the exclusion of other powers from rich concessions in Persia is in danger of collapse. Germany is determined to checkmate Russia and England in their plan to control Persian affairs and has taken such a firm stand in the Huesnerman & Mosig concession that Russia is afraid to order the cancellation of the concession. To permit the concession to stand, however, presents just as serious a menace. The foreign office is trying to adjust matters through correspondence with the German foreign office.

It is feared here that Germany will follow up the Lake Urmiah concession by demanding railway rights in Persia, which, if granted, would be fatal to Russia's plan for superintending, with England's aid, the internal affairs of the shah's country.

BEVERIDGE MEN ARE OVERWHELMED

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 25.—Additional returns today from yesterday's primaries in Marion county indicate a decisive victory for the Shank-Kealing administration in nominating its choice among republicans for legislative and county offices. Of eight republican candidates for representatives selected in the primaries, six appeared on a slate sent out by Kealing as Shank-Kealing men. Six other republican aspirants for the nomination for representative, all undoubtedly Beveridge men, were overwhelmed by Kealing men.

The democratic vote was light.

PRESBYTERIANS HISS CANNON

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 25.—The unpopularity of Speaker Cannon with the commissioners in attendance upon the general assembly of the Presbyterian church, was demonstrated today when the mention of his name during a debate on the temperance question caused a chorus of hisses.

MISS HARRIMAN WEDS SCULPTOR

Man Introduced by Former Fiancee will Lead Rich Girl to the Altar Tomorrow

NEW YORK, May 25.—The wedding of Miss Mary Harriman, daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, and heiress to a large share in one of the greatest American fortunes, to Charles C. Rumsey of Buffalo, N. Y., artist and sculptor, will take place tomorrow in the Episcopal church at Arden.

The Harriman family is still in mourning and the marriage will be as quiet as possible. Only the immediate family and a few close friends will be present. The wedding will be the culmination of the romance of an American heiress who preferred an American man to a foreign title.

Miss Harriman was for some time reported engaged to Robert Watson Golet, millionaire and member of one of the most exclusive families in America. Young Golet's suit was sanctioned by Harriman but when Golet introduced his sweetheart to Rumsey, his classmate at Harvard, it seemed to be a case of love at first sight.

The engagement followed young Rumsey's visit to Arden to do certain sculptor work on a monument to the late E. H. Harriman and a bas relief of Miss Harriman on horseback. Miss Harriman was her father's favorite and is said to have inherited his remarkable business acumen. Before his death Harriman turned over several million dollars to her and taught her how to handle the money. The income from which she devoted to work among poor consumptives. Miss Harriman, after her father's death, took active charge of the great Arden estate. She is head of the Arden Farm Dairy company, capitalized at $100,000, and paying dividends.

Rumsey is the son of Lawrence L. Rumsey of Buffalo. The family is socially prominent. Rumsey was at Harvard for a time but did not graduate. Instead he went to Paris where he spent several years in his study in the Notre Dame D. Champs studying sculpture. He sent subjects to the St. Louis exposition and received several prizes. Rumsey is a noted horseman and polo player and something of an athlete.

Miss Harriman is a splendid horse woman.

INTEREST SHOWN IN MILK LECTURE

Large Attendance Is Assured at Meeting to Be Held at Linker Hall Thursday

Since the announcement was made that Health Officer A. Murphy has made arrangements to have Prof. Ivan C. Weld of the United States department of agriculture, bureau of animal industry, deliver a lecture here tomorrow evening upon the question of a pure milk supply, much interest has been aroused among the citizens of La Crosse and a large attendance is assured. The lecture will be delivered at Linker hall at 8 o'clock.

The board of trade, the social center of the Washington school and other organizations of the city are all urging their members to hear the talk to be given by Professor Weld. The question of a pure milk supply is of vital interest to every citizen of La Crosse and the information to be given upon this subject will be valuable to dairymen as well as to consumers. Arrangements have been made to accommodate everyone who desires to attend.

The speaker will explain how cattle should be handled, how the stables may be kept sanitary and how the milk should be supplied and delivered to the public. The lecture will be illustrated with stereopticon views.

DR. CLEMINSON IS DENIED NEW TRIAL

CHICAGO, May 25.—Judge McSurely in the criminal court today denied a motion for a new trial to Dr. Haldane Cleminson, who was sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of his wife. Dr. Cleminson will not be taken to the penitentiary to begin serving his sentence, but will remain in the county jail until the next term of court. The judge granted a motion to arrest judgment, giving the defense time to complete its record for an appeal to the higher courts for a reversal of the conviction.

The scene in the court room when the judge rendered his decision was pathetic. His mother broke down and wept and Cleminson put his arms around her and tried to console her, saying that everything would turn out for the best.

NEW STYLE OF MONOPLANE OUT

LAON, France, May 25.—A new monoplane with a tail in front and the propeller behind, is soon to have its initial trial here and its builders, Deferre and Deperdussin, already have visions of revolutionizing aerial navigation. The machine will present still another novelty in that its wings can be moved back and forth on the frame. By having practically all of the machinery in front the builders believe a more perfect balance can be obtained.

VISITORS TO SEE CITY FROM AUTOS

The visiting county superintendents who are here attending the state convention, will be given an automobile ride tomorrow afternoon, leaving the normal school promptly at 4 o'clock. It is proposed to take the guests to Onalaska to inspect the agricultural school, and also ride about the city. Automobile owners are requested to be at the normal school at 4 o'clock. Tomorrow evening a theatre party will be given at the Majestic for the visiting superintendents. This will be given at the second performance.

CURTISS TO FLY FOR WORLD PRIZE

American Aviator will Undertake Flight from Albany to New York City Tomorrow

MACHINE SMALLEST MADE

Flight Not so Far as Louis Paulhan's, but More Hazardous Owing to the Mountains

NEW YORK, May 25.—Glenn H. Curtiss of Hammondsport, N. Y., holder of the world's championship speed records in an aeroplane, won at the Rheims, France, meeting last year, left today for Poughkeepsie to find a safe landing spot, to be used tomorrow when he attempts to fly from Albany to New York for the prize of $10,000 offered by the New York World. Curtiss will be allowed two stops enroute, but expects to make only one.

The distance from Albany to New York is 143 miles by rail and about 150 by river.

Curtiss expects to leave Albany about 4 o'clock in the morning, stop at Poughkeepsie to replenish petrol and then continue. He will land either at the battery in New York or on the sand dunes at Governor's Island, if he is successful.

An effort is being made today to have a special train run by the New York Central down the Hudson when Curtiss is making the flight.

In the event Curtiss is held back by the weather tomorrow, he will make the attempt late in the afternoon, reaching Poughkeepsie on his first stop, remaining there all night and continuing the next day.

Has Special Machine

Curtiss has built an aeroplane especially for the feat, fitting it with pontoons to buoy him up in case he falls into the river. He has made several experiments with this aeroplane landing each time on the water and has demonstrated that the machine will not be damaged by falling into the river.

Yesterday Curtiss travelled from Albany to New York on the bridge of an Albany boat, studying the country and the varying air currents.

The start will be made from a spot on Rensselaer island in the Hudson inside the city of Albany. Curtiss expects to maintain an average speed of 45 miles an hour during his trip, reaching New York between 8 and 9 o'clock. Curtiss' new machine is the smallest that has ever flown, according to his manager. Its extreme length is thirty feet. The machine in which Paulhan flew from London to Manchester had a supporting surface three times as large. Curtiss will use a sixty horse power, eight cylinder motor, one of the lightest ever constructed. Although the distance between Albany and New York is not as long as that covered by Paulhan in his London to Manchester flight, the mountainous country makes flying more hazardous, because of the cross currents of air and the draught between the mountains caused by the river.

Some Past Records

In his London-Manchester flight Paulhan flew 186 miles with one stop. His longest sustained flight was 117 miles, made in two hours and fifty minutes. The longest sustained flight on record was made by Henry Farman on November 3, 1909. The official time was four hours six minutes and 25 seconds and the distance recorded was 137 1/4 miles. The unofficial distance was 114 miles, the last seven miles being made after darkness and therefore disallowed in the official records.

On April 18 Paulhan flew from Chevilly, France, to Arcis-sur-Aube, 130 miles, across country. On the following day he continued his flight to Chalons-sur-Marne, 40 miles further, a total distance of 170 miles in about four hours flying time.

SUMMER HOTEL BURNS

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., May 25.—The Hotel Champlain located at Bluff Point, one of the most noted summer hotels in northern New York, was destroyed by fire today. An electrician named Herbert is believed to have burned to death. There were no guests. The loss is estimated at $1,500,000.

No Effort Has Ever Been Made to Control Rail Rates for Benefit of Consumer

LA FOLLETTE WARMS SENATE

Says He will Show Reception of Commission Report in Committee was Insulting

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 25.—"Railroad transportation actually controls the country itself," declared Senator Robert M. La Follette today, in a speech in the senate favoring the Cummins' amendment to the railroad bill, making the increase of rates subject to the approval of the interstate commerce commission.

"To make a monopoly serve the people and prevent monopoly from oppressing the people," said La Follette, "is the highest aim of the government to the people and so will continue until proper legislation for the control of monopolies has been enacted. The power of regulation must be co-equal with the power of abuse."

No Reasonable Rates

"There is not a line in any statute today that gives the people reasonable rates. The law does not go beyond the attempts to afford them equal and non-discriminatory rates. The only thing accomplished up to this time is legislation giving the shipper a right to contest unjust rates."

"No protection is offered the consumer, who interests are entirely different from those of the shipper. The consumer is the 97,000,000 people as against the 1,300,000 shippers."

The Interstate Commerce Commission is engaged in mere child's play seeking to regulate rates. They are hedged about by such regulations as prevent control or remedy.

Sinned For 40 Years

"The railroads of this country had their own way in legislation for 40 years. Those now in public life will have the sins of many congresses to atone for."

La Follette maintained that present rates are too high and that the present bill contains no measure by which the interstate commerce commission can determine the reasonableness of any rate. He argued in favor of the physical valuation of railroad property as a basis for freight rates.

The paragraph relating to suspension of rates in the bill as prepared for the president last November.

maintain that the country child should not have educational advantage equal to the best that is provided in the state. The claim for equal educational opportunity for all would doubtless receive universal sanction, and yet educational opportunity is so unequal in this country that startling injustice is done to many of our children.

"With short terms and poor facilities, with inexperienced and often poorly prepared teachers, overburdened with classes, and with little supervision, the country school, in its effort to train children for country life, has not, in all instances, been able to compete with the city school in its effort to train children for city life. In other words, the country school is not as good as the city school. Put six months, and in many instances a shorter term, over against nine or ten months; put a poorly located, poorly heated, poorly ventilated, poorly equipped, single-room school house over against a centrally located, well-built and well-equipped, modern building; put a reasonable distance, with good walks or streets over against a long distasteful with poor roads; put well-qualified, experienced teachers, with daily supervision, over against meager qualifications and experience; put a richness of social life, with libraries and lectures and art and music over against a dearth of these advantages, and the real situation may, in a measure, be understood.

Poor Teacher Hindrance

"Of all the hindrances that keep the country child out of his rights the poor teacher should be pre-foremost. The school exists for the child, and the school can be no more than the teacher. With a wide-awake, well-prepared teacher, even the shortcoming of a limited term with poor equipment, would be reduced to the minimum.
Short terms, single-room school houses in isolated districts, many classes and poor facilities with good teachers, are infinitely better than the finest equipment with incompetent teachers. In the last analysis, poor teaching is the chief cause of unequal educational opportunity. The supreme need, then, is a sufficient number of well trained teachers to take charge of all our schools. It might be well contended with such teaching as we have in many schools at present the terms are long enough and the provisions are good enough. With a real teacher in each school room in this country for four or five year this argument for better things would be unnecessary.

superintendent, then, is to bring about better conditions in the country child educational opportunity equal to the best that is provided in the state. In the light of the above statement, the duties of the county superintendent naturally fall under the following heads:

"1. To unify the work of the county in education by—

"a. Keeping constantly before the people definite aims and methods.
This may be accomplished by the use of the press of the county, or bulletins or letters or all these agencies.

"b. By indicating well worked out courses of study for both the elementary and secondary schools.

"c. By perfecting educational organizations, such as township (town) and county institutes and associations, reading circles, industrial clubs for the children and patrons of public schools.

"Notice, that the county superintendent is to unify the work a unity rather than to attempt to bring about uniformity. He is to encourage individuality in the teacher and to commend always any power of initiative. If the work is made so uniform that the system is a machine and the teacher is merely a puppet, then it would be better to have no county superintendent of schools.

Must Set Standard

"2. To set the pace or standard in educational progress—

"a. By skillful leadership for a very large majority of the teachers.

"b. By being a sharp goad for some of the teachers. Teachers need inspiration. The mere presence of an educated, professionally trained, responsible leader with license power is very valuable. In some states the examination of all teachers is placed with the state instead of the county superintendent. Whatever the merits of this method, the work of selecting first term teachers should be placed in the hands of the county superintendent, who is constantly mingling with his teachers and examining the work of the children in the public schools, and who on account of this knowledge of the needs in the county, is prepared to do this initial work much better than an outsider can do it. A county superintendent, who is a close observer and a good judge of human nature and who is constantly mingling with his teachers and examining the work of the children in the schools, can select the bright boys and girls from the seventh and eighth grades and from the high school and encourage them to prepare to teach school. He can watch their progress through the grades and high school and from them he can select his teachers with much more intelligence than is possible for a state board of education or a state superintendent of public instruction, or any other state authority so far removed to select

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD HUMORS

The skin is provided with countless pores and glands, through which an evaporation is going on continually, day and night. This is Nature's method of regulating the temperature of our bodies, and preserving the natural appearance of the skin. These pores and glands are connected with tiny veins and arteries through which they receive from the blood the necessary nourishment and strength to preserve their healthy condition.

Just as long as the blood remains pure the skin will be free from eruptions, but when the blood becomes affected with acids and humors its nourishing and healthful properties are lost, and its acrid, humor-laden condition causes inflammation of the delicate tissues and fibres of the pores and glands, and the effect is shown in Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pimples, Rash, etc.

The humors and acids get into the blood through a deranged and inactive condition of the system. Those members whose duty it is to collect and expel the refuse matters of the body fail to properly do their work, and a surplus amount of waste matter is left in the system to sour and ferment and be absorbed into the blood. Salves, washes, lotions, etc., are valuable only for what ability they possess to keep the skin clean, allay itching and temporarily reduce inflammation. They cannot cure skin trouble because they do not reach the blood.

S. S. S. cures Skin Diseases of every character and kind because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It goes into the circulation and REMOVES the acids and humors that are causing the trouble, builds up the weak, acrid blood and completely cures Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pimples, Rash, etc.

Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pimples, Rash, and every variety of skin eruption and affection. When S. S. S. has driven out the humors and acids from the blood, every symptom passes away, the skin is nourished with rich, healthful blood, the tissues are relieved of all inflammation, natural evaporation again takes place and the skin becomes soft and smooth and perfect.

ECZEMA 12 YEARS. S. S. S. CURED HER Dear Sirs:—I suffered with a bad case of Eczema for over 12 years, and I tried everything I heard of,
and had many medicines prescribed by doctors. I spent considerable money and my husband spared no expense to cure me of the disease. Nothing helped me until I began to use S. S. S. I commenced this medicine and the Eczema soon began to gradually disappear. I continued taking S. S. S. and it completely cured the disease. Mrs. Chas. Gill,

THE POST COMPLAINS

A local morning newspaper finds some delight in copying a recent editorial of the Madison Journal the burden of which is that three insurgent Republican newspapers in widely separated sections of the state published an editorial of similar import.
The Madison paper intimated that these editorials were either identical or followed the same general line of thought and style, perhaps occupying the same relationship to each other as that existing between the "Lawyer draft" and the "Taft letter."

Be not startled, gentle reader, at the information that the local editor CREDITED the effusion to the Madison paper. If this recognition of authorship is unprecedented, it has its excuse in the fact that it would have been immensely inconsistent for him to appropriate, sans credit, an editorial criticizing others for a very similar practice.

However, there is some slight difference between the methods of which the local editor alleges progressive contemporaries have been guilty, and his own "system." The gravest meaning he can give his copied accusation is that they used a syndicated editorial. In other words, they accepted, relating to some subject upon which all were agreed, the proffered text of an editorial upholding their own views on the subject. That is what they did, if they did anything charged against them, and this discussion of the matter does not accept the accusation as fact.

But anyone who cares to write the New York Times or Philadelphia Ledger can verify the assertion that this critical local editor has a better scheme. He prefers to clip editorials of high priced editorial writers on great newspapers and run them as his own, without credit. Be it remembered, however, that he finally got "credit" for it. The syndicated editorial is an evidence of lazy journalism, but the editorial copied without credit may be described by a first cousin to the shorter and uglier word.

THE PHILIPP DENIAL

"The disclaimer by E. L. Philipp that the Conservative convention has been called to promote the candidacies of E. T. Fairchild and Samuel Cook suggests that it yet is possible that the Reactionary element will be able to assert itself and bring into the field candidates more representative of the Reactionary revival," says the Milwaukee Journal.

"Mr. Cook, however estimable a citizen he may be when his iten for office is not troubling him, is not a representative of Stalwart Republicanism. With equal facility, he has been Progressive and Reactionary at turn, and has blown hot and cold in the same breath with such frequency that it is doubtful if he himself knows the temperature of the alternating current. As a personal candidate in the primary, Mr. Cook, with the workers organized and with the support of the disgruntled interests and enemies of La Pollette, may make some sort of a showing, but as the leader or representative of a movement of definite purpose and known character he is not an impressive figure. He has none of the elements of a leader.
His convictions are too unsettled and he is too desirous of pleasing all sides to permit him to do more than to trail along after the procession.
He is a political straggler, too amiable to fight and yet militant enough to jangle a sword. A good man in the wrong place, Mr. Cook should cast aside his useless weapons of war and devote himself to giving first aid to the wounded. A kind nurse has been spoiled in the making of an indifferent soldier."

"Mr. Fairchild, the Tory candidate for governor, is not a more positive character than Mr. Cook.
He is a more confirmed Reactionary.
He has been more faithful to the compelling causes of Toryism, but he is not a man whose strong personality and whose devotion to Stalwartism in government would single him out as a representative of the Stalwart movement such as it was when it was dominated by men of the Payne-Spooner-Sawyer type. We can conceive him as a candidate for a minor office, but as a leader of a movement seeking to restore the Stalwart regime he seems pitifully inadequate for the task."

"Mr. Philipp who is a survival of the Stalwartism that makes no pretense to Progressive virtues, must perceive the need of men of pronounced convictions and forceful character to lead the movement for the restoration of the Stalwartism that stood firmly and squarely upon Hamiltonian doctrine that government can render no greater service to the public than to bestow its favors and privileges upon the few that under an industrial feudalism they in turn may employ and protect the weak and impoverished. He must recognize that the alliance between Stalwartism and the Stephensonite type of 'reformer' deprives the movement of whatever force, or dignity, or character or standing it might have were it to come out in the open and, standing on its own legs, assert its design to revive Stalwart Republicanism a place government in the hands of the 'efficient few' in place of mob' against which Conservatism inwardly rages."

"With a candidate such as M. G.
Jeffris of Janesville, for the office of governor, with a man such as Mr.
Philipp himself, as a candidate for the office of senator, the movement would have at its head real leaders—men that in their personality, their views and their convictions convey a definite idea to the public mind."
"There were giants in the old days—there are giants today. But why should the conservatives pass by their men cast in large mold for men of uncertain caliber? Why fight under false colors? Why try to make a fetish of Taftism under pretense that it is identical with Rooseveltism and its progressive policies, when, in fact, behind the temple's hidden veil Aldrichism is the great bronze idol before which they lie prostrate?"

The New York legislature has failed to ratify the amendment to the United States constitution providing for an income tax. It failed by one vote. That one vote was by a member whose seat in the legislature had been the subject of an election contest. A recount of the ballots was indulged in.

During that recount of the ballots this member, who was finally declared elected, changed his mind from being favorable to the income tax to an adverse position.

All these circumstances combined may not do more than to raise a suspicion that a recount of ballots under the old pencil marked system is subject to any kind of an outcome to suit the powers that be. However, should the income tax amendment be lost on account of New York state failing to ratify it, there will be a further loss of confidence in the ballot.

The white missionary was led to the stake. The jagots were being piled around him preparatory to the roast.

Suddenly the cannibal chief called his subjects about him and pointing to the toothsome form of the missionary, proceeded to organize his party and explain to them that each cannibal in his proper turn would be permitted to stab the missionary once and drink his blood from the wound.
The peace loving and patient missionary after listening to this program, was asked if he had anything to say before the performance started.

"No," said he, "nothing, only it looks as if I was going to get stuck for the drinks."

SPOTLIGHTS

HAVE LAUGH ON BILL

Performers and the house staff at the Majestic theater are this week having a good laugh at the expense of Bill Friese, the stage manager.
Bill was "kicking" about the length of time it takes to mop up the stage after the shows. Miss Sadie Palmer, who appears in the act with Manuel Romain, the celebrated singer, opined that she could do it in less than an hour and said she had a fiver to back up her opinion with.
The stage manager looked at the girl, who is not much bigger than a fifteen year old child, laughed and said that he would take her up.
Looked like easy money to Bill.
"Bring on the tools," said the little dancer, and a short time later, as she went to her dressing room with the $5, she looked over at the "regulars" to remark:
"Not that I needed the money, but these chesty stage managers make me tired."

"And how old are you, little girl?"
"Six."
"And how is it you are out walking without your mamma?"
"Oh, mamma doesn't go in for exercise. Really, we have very little in common."—Houston Chronicle.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health is Worth Saving, and Some La Crosse People Know How to Save It

Many La Crosse people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a La Crosse citizen's recommendation.

E. Mable, 320 South Seventh St., La Crosse, says: "For many years I was annoyed by too frequent passages of the kidney secretions and was unable to find relief until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. I procured my supply at Erhart and Son's drug store and in view of my experience, I have no hesitation in giving them my endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, Tasks for George Who'll put a stop to angry words Between the Commons and the Lords And make them sheathe their verbal swords?

Let George do it.

Who'll hark to Egypt's bitter plea And peace in Pharaoh's land decree By larger grants of liberty?
Let George do it.

Who'll put an end to threat and boast
And lift the war cloud from his coast
And bid the German Kaiser "prost"?
Let George do it.

Who'll make his name forever stand Among the great helping hand To gain Home Rule for Ireland?
Let George do it.

No task is here that he should rue it,
The path is plain if he pursue it;
The question now is, will George do it?
Maybe he will.
—Richard Linthicum.

He Knew the Text

Robert Saltsman, a prominent citizen of Erie, Pa., was in town the other day long enough to relate the strange church going experience of his son Chester. The boy had been in the habit of going to church with his mother, but one Sunday she was unable to go and he persuaded her to let him go by himself. Well, when he returned from the seat of gospel dispensation, his mother was anxious to ascertain how closely he had paid attention. She asked him what had been the text of the sermon.

"Don't worry, you'll get the quilt," replied the boy promptly.

The mother failed to see the connection. Once more she inquired about the text, and the boy repeated his remark, "Don't worry, you'll get the quilt."

This about convinced the mother her son was getting a bit too fresh for so small a child and she made up her mind to punish him. Just then she saw a friend going home from church, and she called after her to learn what the text had been.

Here's what it was: "Have no fear.
The comforter will be with you."
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Lost the Place

Sally—Please, ma'am, I can't find the broom.

Mrs. Shipshape—Haven't I told you often enough to have a place for everything and everything in its place?

Sally—Yes, ma'am, I did that but I have lost the place.

Gone, But Not Forgotten

The poorly old gentleman had just finished a sumptuous repast. Lighting a huge Havana, he arose to go.
"Haven't you forgotten something?" began the waiter, in an insulting manner.

"Why, so I have!" was the reply.
"I declare, my memory becomes more treacherous every day!"

Lifting the ash tray, he pocketed the dollar bill lying beneath it, and calmly strode out past the crestfallen knights of the tray.—Judge's Library.

Was Quite Struck With It

Perkins—Did you see Morgan's new machine?

Jerkins—Not in time.—Smart Set.

Practical Side of It

Sammie was late to breakfast. He had worked late on his lessons the night before; in fact had them all neatly prepared and ready for his recitations, but his attitude plainly told that something was the matter.
"Father," said Sammie, as he jerked his chair toward his bowl of rolled oats, "I don't want to go to school today."

"Why, what's the trouble, lad?"

"Well, I just don't want to go."

"Now, look here, Sammie, you have your lessons all prepared for today. I see you have been studying the history of the Netherlands, the king and the queen, and, in fact, all about the system of government.
Now, what's the trouble?"

"Aw, shucks, dad, what good does that do me? In all probabilities the Netherlands will be a republic before I ever get in a position to make use of the knowledge."

But Sammie went to school just the same.—New York Sun.

GOOSE GIRL

CHAPTER I. Some in Rags.

An old man, clothed in picturesque patches and tatters, paused and leaned on his stout oak staff. He was tired. He drew off his rusty felt hat, swept a sleeve across his forehead, and sighed. He had waked many miles that day, and even now the journey's end, near as it really was, seemed far away. Ah, but he would sleep soundly that night, whether the bed were of earth or of straw. His peasant garb rather enhanced his fine head. His eyes were blue and clear and far-seeing, the eyes of a hunter or a woodsman, of a man who watches the shadows in the forest at night or the dim, wavering lines on the horizon at daytime; things near or far or roundabout. His brow was high, his nose large and bridged; a face of more angles than contours, bristling with gray spikes, like one who has gone unhewn several days. His hands, folded over the round, polished knuckle of his staff, were tanned and soiled, but they were long and slender, and the callouses were pink, a certain indication that they were fresh.

The afternoon glow of the September sun burned along the dusty white highway. From where he stood the road trailed off miles behind and wound up five hundred feet or more above him to the ancient city of Dreiberg. It was not a steep road, but a long and weary one, a steady, enervating, unbroken climb. To the left the mighty cliff reared its granite side to the hanging city, broke in a wide plain, and then went on up several thousand feet to the ledges of dragon-green ice and snow. To the right sparkled and flashed a wild mountain stream on its way to the broad, fertile valley, which, mistily green and brown and yellow with vineyards and hops and corn, spread out and on to the north, stopping abruptly at the base of the more formidable chain of mountains.

Across this lofty jumble of bar-ren rock and glacial cleft, now purpling and darkening as the sun mellowed in its decline, lay the kingdom of Jugendheit; and toward this the wayfarer gazed meditatively, absorbing little or nothing of the exquisite panorama. By and by his gaze wandered, and that particular patch in the valley, brown from the beating of many iron-shod horses, caught and chained his interest for a space. It was the military field, and it glittered and scintillated as squadron after squadron of cavalry dashed from side to side or wheeled in bewildering circles.

"The philosophy of war is to prepare for it," mused the old man, with a jerk of his shoulders.
"France! So the matter runs. There is a Napoleon in France, but no Bonaparte. Clatter-clatter! Bang-bang!" He laughed ironically and cautiously glanced at his watch, an article which must have cost him many and many a potato-patch. He pulled his hat over his eyes, scratched the irritating stubble on his chin, and stepped forward.

He had followed yonder goose-girl ever since the incline began. Oft the little wooden shoes had lagged, but here they were, still a hundred yards or more ahead of him. He had never been close enough to distinguish her features. The galleping of soldiers up and down the road from time to time disturbed her flock, but she was evidently a patient soul, and relied valiantly upon her stick of willow. Once or twice he had been inclined to hasten his steps, to join her, to talk, to hear the grateful sound of his own voice, which he had not heard since he passed the frontier customs, yet each time he had subdued the desire and continued to lessen none of the distance between them.

The little goose-girl was indeed tired, and the little wooden shoes grew heavier and heavier, and the little bare feet ached dully; but her heart was light and her mind sweet with happiness. Day after day she had tended the geese in the valley and trudged back at evening alone, all told a matter of twelve miles; and now she was bringing them into the city to sell in the market tomorrow. After that she would have little to do save an hour or two at night in a tavern called the Black Laggle, where she waited on patrons.
On the two feet, the old man in tatters, the goose-girl in wooden shoes. The man listened; she was singing brightly, and the voice was sweet and strong and true.

"She is happy; that is some recompense. She is richer than I am."
And the peasant fell into a reverie.
Presently there was a clatter of horses, a jingle of bit and spur and saber. The old man stepped to the side of the road and sat down on the stone parapet. It would be wiser to wait till the dust settled. Half a dozen mounted officers trotted past.
The peasant on the parapet instantly recognized one of the men. He saluted with a humbleness which lacked sincerity. It was the grand duke himself. There was General Ducwitz, too, and some of his staff, and a smooth-faced, handsome young man in civilian riding-clothes, who, though he rode like a cavalierman, was obviously of foreign birth, an Englishman or an American. They were laughing and chatting amiably for the grand duke of Ehrenstein bothered himself about formalities only at formal times. The outsider watched them regretfully as they went by, and there was some envy in his heart, too.

When the cavalcade reached the goose-girl, the peace of the scene vanished forthwith. Confusion took up the scepter. The silly geese, instead of remaining on the left of the road, in safety, straightway determined that their haven of refuge was on the opposite side. Gonk-gonk! Quack-quack! They scrambled, they blundered, they flew. Some tried to go over the horses, some endeavored to go under. One landed, full-winged, against the grand duke's chest and swept his vizored cap off his head and rolled it into the dust. The duke signed to his companions to draw up; to proceed in this undignified manner was impossible. All laughed heartily, however; all excepting the goose-girl. To her it was far from being a laughing matter. It would take half an hour to calm her stupid charges. And she was so tired.

"Stupids!" she cried despairingly.
"From pigs and chickens, good Lord deliver us!" shouted the civilian, sliding from his horse and recovering the duke's cap.

Now, the duke was a kind-hearted, thoughtful man, notwithstanding his large and complex affairs of state; as he ceased laughing, he searched a pocket, and tossed a couple of coins to the forlorn goose-girl.
"I am sorry, little one," he said gravely; "I hope none of your geese is hurt."

"Oh, Highness!" cried the girl, breathless from her recent endeavors and overcome with the grandeur of the two ducal effigies in her hand. She had seen the grand duke times without number, but she had never yet been so near to him. And now he had actually spoken to her.
It was a miracle. She would tell them all that night in the dark old Krumerweg. And for the moment this prospect overshadowed all thought of her geese.

The civilian dusted the royal cap with his sleeve, returned it, and mounted. He then looked casually at the girl.

"By George!" he exclaimed, in English.

"What is it?" asked the duke, gathering up the reins.

"The girl's face; it is beautiful."

The duke, after a glance, readily agreed. "You Americans are always observant."

"Whenever there's a pretty face about," supplemented Ducwitz.

"I certainly shouldn't trouble to look at a homely one," the American retorted.

"Pretty figure, too," said one of the aides, a colonel. But his eye held none of the abstract admiration which characterized the American's.

The goose-girl had seen this look in other men's eyes; she knew. A faint color grew under her tan, and waned, but her eyes wavered not the breadth of a hair. It was the colonel who finally was forced to turn his gaze elsewhere, chagrined. His face was not unfamiliar to her.

"Beauty is a fickle goddess," remarked Ducwitz tritely, settling himself firmly in the saddle. "In giving, she is as blind as a bat. I know a duchess now—but never mind."

"Q" TIME TABLE MAKES A CHANGE

Changes in Time of Passenger Trains Effective on May 29; No. 51 to Get Here Earlier

Announcement was made today at the offices of the Burlington road that several changes in the timetables of the passenger and the freight traffic have been made, and that they will be effective Sunday, May 29.

But one local passenger train is affected, that being the afternoon northbound passenger No. 51, which now arrives here at 6:20 o'clock.
Sunday and after the train will arrive at the Pearl street station at 5:45 o'clock or 35 minutes earlier.
The time of freight train No. 91, which is also one of the local trains has been changed, the train arriving here half an hour earlier in the morning. Another change which is effective is the time of passenger train No. 42 which will after Saturday leave Savanna east bound a 5:50 o'clock in the morning instead of at 5:40 o'clock.

WILL STOP PRACTICE OF JUMPING TRAINS

The Milwaukee & St. Paul railway company has inaugurated a crusade to put a stop to the dangerous practice of catching rides on moving trains and has instructed its officials to work to this end, among the officials working along this line being Detective Schoenig recently appointed to service for the road.

As yet no arrests have been made in this city, although the practice is indulged in by the younger boys.

MILWAUKEE INSTALL TELEPHONE SERVICE

The Milwaukee road has now put the telephones into operation between Savanna and Marion and it is being used for the handling of trains in place of the telegraph.

Lines are being built west to the Missouri river from Marion and it is expected will be in operation by the middle of summer.

TAFT WANTS "BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS"

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 25.—A plan to abolish the department of the interior and create a new "department of public works" will be considered this summer by President Taft, according to a report circulated here today.

Papers publishing the report took pains to state that the scheme had no connection with the "trial" of Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, though it was hinted that he might not become the head of the new department. It is declared the main features of the new department would be as follows:

It would have charge of the Panama canal and all the work incidental to that project's up-keep and support.

It would look after the irrigation projects throughout the country.

It would take over all the conservation and forestry work now being done by different departments of the government.

It would have the control of such minor work as it contemplated in the proposed bureau of public health and such activity as are now found in the various movements for the protection of water supplies and water power sites.

It would have under it, as a subordinate bureau, a branch to look after the public lands.

MR. ALDRICH GETS SARCASTIC IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 25.—

Sharp sarcasm from Senator Aldrich met the request of Senator Beveridge yesterday that some action be taken by the senate finance committee on the bill prohibiting the use of coupons in tobacco packages. Beveridge urged that the measure was designed to remedy an "admitted and crying evil."

Aldrich replied that the committee would take due notice of Bever-idge's "anxiety."

"I know the senator's desire to accomplish everything possible for the public good," continued Aldrich, sarcastically. "I hope he will join us in disposing of the railroad bill and other measures that are delaying business. I wish the senator would use his great influence with his friends to have some things expedited."

Bradish, Keeler, Stevenson and Jacobson Likely to Participate in the Big Meet

Tyout for the track men was held at the high school yesterday afternoon preparatory to the inter-scholastic meet at Madison next Saturday. Jacobson qualified in the hammer. From present indications it looks as if Bradish, Keeler, Stevenson and Jacobson would be the La Crosse representatives sent to the state meet as they have been doing the best work of any of the local team. These men should be good enough to get a place in the events at Madison, as all of them did well in the interstate meet last week. In addition to this they are all seasoned track men and can be depended upon to do their best.

After the Madison meet, the track season is practically over, as the only other meet of importance is the Ripon affair held on June 3, but it is not as yet known if La Crosse will send any representatives. To close the season, the annual class meet will be held on June 11 on the high school campus. This has always been a good one, and this year's will be no exception, as rivalry between the different classes is always intense. Last year and the year before the seniors won the meet easily, but it is hoped that some one will be able to beat them this year, as there is a great deal of material in the other classes.

Grade Meet June 4
June 4 is the date set for the annual grade school meet held under the auspices of the High School Athletic association. For two years this has been a fine contest, all the schools displaying great interest and working hard for first place. As usual it will be held at the fair grounds and will be run off in the morning. In former years there has been a lot of good material out, and this year there will be more than ever, as all

CHANGE FOOD And Lose that Uneasy Feeling

A man who has always been a "funny chap," although hardly ever ill, tells of the way he put on flesh and reduced his irritability and nervous condition.

By chance he had a taste of Grape-Nuts food at the table of a friend and enjoyed the flavor so much that he began to eat it every meal. He says: "In a short time I found myself another person, the old feeling of discontent and uneasiness left me entirely, it became a pleasure to go about my work, whereas, before, for years, I had always had the feeling of being a little weary, now I seem to have a surplus of energy for everything. My weight has increased 11 pounds in 4 weeks, and I am still gaining."

"I have never been very sick, and am satisfied that if my present improvement in health continues, I shall not be."

The change that this food has made in my life has been remarkable and so satisfactory that I am glad of the opportunity to tell you."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Now read the above letter? A new way appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

SCHOENOUR FIGHTING FOR SOX POSITION

Catcher Schoenour, who was released by the Outcasts some time ago is making a hard fight to nail the backstop position at Duluth. The News Tribune says: "Schoenour, the young catcher who tried out with La Crosse this spring, is still with Duluth and has the goods, although he is a little lacking in experience. He will be kept on the payroll until the team reaches Duluth next Thursday and then it will be a race between Anderson and him to see who sticks with the White Stockings."

"PROSPERITY'S" LOW WAGE CAUSES CRIME

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 25.—The low wage scale was attributed as the cause of the increase in crime, ignorance and ill health, by Paul U. Kellogg in an address before the national conference on charities and corrections which is in annual session here. Mr. Kellogg declared that the total financial aid of the charitable organizations of the United States did not equal the deficiency in wages paid by employers of the country.

"Certain it is," he said, "the financial contributions to charity do not equal the difference between the wages paid and the cost of living at true living level."

WEDDING RECEPTION

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Roth, the young couple who were married yesterday morning at the St. James church, gave a reception to their friends at the Brotherhood of American Yeomen hall. The hall was beautifully decorated with evergreen, drooping from the center toward the sides. A table for the bride and groom, the best man, bridesmaid, man and maid of honor and flower girls was beautifully decorated with roses and carnations, directly over which hung a bell trimmed with smilax. Four long tables were spread for the many guests who assembled. At 8:30 the orchestra played Mendelssohn's wedding march, and the young couple, with a flower girl on either side, led the guests in a grand

The party was served most royally by the young ladies drill team of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen.

Immediately after supper Mr. C. W. Willey, who acted as toastmaster, called on several of the guests to respond, who honored the host and hostess.

The bride and groom both responded to the call and proved themselves master of the situation. After the tables were cleared and removed the merry party enjoyed dancing.

The out of town guests were Messrs. and Mesdames N. J. Schroeder, John Roth, William Roth of Dubuque; Mr. and Mrs. L. L. ASK SIFTING THAT UNCOVERS TRUTH

MADISON, Wis., May 25.—Back of resolutions passed by 150 senior men at their stag dinner at the university of Wisconsin Saturday night lies a plain intimation to the water power and other big interests commonly supposed to be represented on the board of university regents that the students do not take kindly to restrictions upon the search for truth that in the past has made the university famous.

They embodied this feeling in diplomatically phrased words but none the less significant of the warning to all enemies of the university that freedom of thought must not be suppressed, nor any legitimate line of inquiry be made the subject of repressive regulation.

Some time ago the senior class announced its purpose of leaving as a class memorial a tablet that should symbolize the permanency of the university's announced stand for the "truth." Permission was asked of the board of regents to place the tablet on the front of university hall. The executive committee of the board, consisting of former Governor W. D. Hoard, Fort Atkinson, leader of the dairy interests; Magnus Swenson, Madison, president of the Southern Wisconsin Power company, which is developing two million dollar water power projects on the Wisconsin river; and Lucien S. Hanks, president of the State Bank, Madison; turned down the request, at least temporarily, and told the class that such an important matter should be left with the whole board to decide.

Adopt Pledge
When the senior class held its dinner last Saturday night, there were some significant remarks along the line of the curbing of the "enemies of the university," and at the close of the program, the seniors, to the number of 150, unanimously adopted their "1910 proclamation," in which among other things the following pledge was made:

"To support to the utmost the interests of Wisconsin, her unhindered growth toward supremacy and freedom as expressed in 'Our Memorial.'"
"That 'Whatever may be the limitations which hamper inquiry elsewhere, we believe that the great state university of Wisconsin should encourage that continual and fearless sifting and winnowing by which alone the truth can be found,' as quoted from the report of the investigating committee of the board of regents in 1896;

"We, the members of the class of 1910, hereby pledge ourselves."
The regents will not meet again until shortly before the class graduates in June.

The clock in the court house tower is again out of order and the county officials are obliged to depend upon their timepieces for their meal hours. The manufacturers of the clock have been notified and a man will be sent here to make the necessary repairs.

EMPLOYEES ENJOY DAY AT FERNDALE

Nicholson-Scott Picnic Up River Proves to Be Most Delightful Event
Yesterday

The Nicholson-Scott company frolic, which was pulled off yesterday at Ferndale was one of the most enjoyable events of the season. The large store was closed at noon yesterday, the proprietors and employees taking the line of march for the wharf where all embarked on the launch J. I. Singer, and started up river for Ferndale, which was reached without accident. All care was abandoned and there was no "shop talk," each and every one giving themselves up to the pleasures of the day without even a thought for the morrow. Hampers of delicacies were quickly unpacked and after the pangs of hunger had been satisfied contests and various games were the order of the day.

In the egg race Miss Yanzer won first prize, Miss Maher second and Miss Johnson third. In the one-hundred yard dash the prizes were won by Miss Wallace, Miss Flahn and Miss Varick. In the ball throwing contest the prizes were taken by Miss Reid, Miss Storck and Miss Wagner. potato race was won by Miss Spettel, Miss Maher and Miss Davis. Skipping rope contest was won by Miss Johnston, Miss Davis and Miss Oberlander.

In the tug of war contest the captains were Miss Rose Kischner and Miss Reid, the latter being victorious. It was a tired but happy party which arrived at the home landing at 8 o'clock. None enjoyed the day more than did the projectors of the event, Messrs. Scott and Rose, who financed the affair.

Those participating were the Misses Lundgren, Wallace, Storck, Varick, DuPee, Kirschner, Hahn, Eddy, Johnson, Kline, Sweeney, Peters, Fay, Spettel, Maher, Reid, Oberlander, Yanzer, Wagner, Bolrud, Davis and Woessner; Messrs. Oscar Hermanson, Gilberg, Gautsch, J. Rae, N. M. Scott, A. Rose.

HEDGED ABOUT BY CUNNING PROVISOS

ber, La Follette said, was in the interest of the people. As it was afterwards weakened, following the visit of railroad presidents to the White House the paragraph was wholly in the interests of the railroads, he asserted.

Legislation Strangled
La Follette reviewed the efforts to curb the railroad since 1874 and declared that corporate influence to congress was sufficient to strangle all proposed legislation.

"There was no reasonable and just rates at present as between the public and the shipper," he said. "There never will be protection for the people until congress empowers some tribunal to prevent the collection of not only unreasonable but extortionate rates until after investigation and approval. Those who do not vote to afford this relief will betray the public trust."

"Morgan and Rockefeller will soon stand as representing the consolidated railroad interests. Harriman reached out his hand and grasped the Gould interests in the south. The Vanderbils now read the hand writing on the wall and their group will soon pass to the common control."

How About Senate?
Senator Newlands (D., Nev.) interrupting, said the manner in which the house had treated the recommendation of the interstate commerce commission was insulting and contemptuous.

It was suggested by Senator Callinger (R., N. H.) that Newlands' statement was near a violation of the rules.

"I will go further," said La Follette, "and demonstrate that the treatment he commissions recommendations received by the proper committee of this body was insulting and contemptuous to the highest degree. I will prove this by the records and that cannot constitute a violation of the rules."

La Follette quoted the following expression used by Carl Schurz: "I do not think that senators are retained by the railroads, but I do say that they act as if they were so retained."

"The most charitable view to take of this whole matter," said La Follette, "is that the chairman of the interstate commerce committee pay just as much attention to the recommendation of the commission as they do now to the discussion of this question here."

Taking up the question of physical valuation La Follette declared that no adjustment of rates could be properly made until such a system is adopted.

The Nelson Carpet company is offering unheard of values for small money during their mammoth rug sale.

KELBE SAYS FEST WILL BE SUCCESS

Director Arrives Here to Conduct a Rehearsal of Frohsinn Society
This Evening

"The saengerfest to be held at Omaha July 20 to 23 will be a big success from all present indications," said Theodore Kelbe of Milwaukee, director of the grand chorus. Mr. Kelbe arrived in this city this noon from Davenport and was met at the depot by the following committee: John Malin, Robert Isler, Henry Voss, John Neukomm and Richard Iversen. He was escorted to the Hotel Doering, where he will make his headquarters. This evening he will conduct the rehearsal of the Frohsinn Singing society in the Frohsinn hall.

Mr. Kelbe began his long trip last Sunday, when he paid his first visit to the societies at Madison, Wis. From there he went to Freeport, Ill., then to Davenport, Iowa, and from there he came to La Crosse. Tomorrow evening he will be at Urm, Minn., and on Friday evening he will be in St. Paul. "Although I have just started on my trip," said Mr. Kelbe, "I am sure that the fest will be a success. The societies that I have visited thus far have all done well and everything points to a very successful saengerfest. I will be busy from now until nearly up to the time of the opening of the fest, visiting the several societies, including those in Denver, Colo., Kansas City, Omaha, Milwaukee, Chicago, and many places in Nebraska."

Mr. Kelbe will be remembered as the director of the immense chorus at the saengerfest held in this city two years ago.

GOLD DUST is better than soap and elbow grease for pots and pans. It digs deep into cracks and corners and sterilizes everything it touches

There is nothing about the kitchen which collects so much dirt, grease and grime as pots and pans; and there is nothing that will clean them so quickly, easily and thoroughly as GOLD DUST.

GOLD DUST cleanses until the last evidence of dirt has gone, and removes every trace of germ life.

You are probably not aware that pots and pans which are used constantly contain hidden nests of little wigglers—germs of putrefaction and decay. GOLD DUST removes these, because it sterilizes as well as cleans, and leaves your utensils clean, pure, wholesome, safe.

GOLD DUST will work wonders in cleansing and polishing milk cans, pails, bottles and dairy utensils, pots, pans and kettles.

EKERN CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER

Whitehall Man's Expected Announcement of Can- didacy Is Made Today

WHITEHALL, Wis., May 23.—(Special.)—Herman L. Ekern, through whose efforts many insurance reforms were put upon the statute books of the state today made public the following announcement of his candidacy for the republican nomination for the office of insurance commissioner:

To the Voters of Wisconsin: Insurance interests every citizen. It protects his business, his future and the future of his family. It affects more property than does any other business. It represents more savings than does any other form of investment. It is the most universal safeguard of the economic independence of our people. Its efficient regulation and supervision in the interests of the policyholder and the public is more and more recognized as one of the highest duties of the state.

The laws enacted in this state as a result of the progressive movement inaugurated by Robert M. La Follette are generally recognized as sound in principle and in the interest of the public. The laws regulating the business of life insurance were framed after a thorough investigation instituted by the legislature of 1905. They were enacted to make life insurance more useful, economical and safe. They enforce economy, reduce premiums by limiting the collections from policyholders for expenses, limit expenses, require strict accounting to every policyholder, bring the mutual policyholder nearer to his company, and safeguard generally the interests of the company, the policyholder and the state.

These laws were demanded by both the republican and democratic parties in their state platforms in 1906. They were approved by both in 1908. Life insurance in Wisconsin now rests upon a more secure foundation than ever before. The policyholder gets more and safer insurance at less cost than ever before. The strongest and best companies of other states do business here in compliance with our laws. New companies have been and are being organized here to do business in conformity with these laws. With the protection so assured to policyholders, our largest home company has increased its business, both within and without the state, beyond all past experience.

This legislation, while applying principally to "old line" insurance, has indirectly benefited all fraternal insurance. It promotes that publicity and knowledge of insurance principles which leads to an understanding of the true problems and the real possibilities of fraternal insurance. It also brings home to the public the great work done by these societies in furnishing to the families of members so much insurance with so little expense.

The benefits in the upbuilding of the insurance business in this state extend also to the public revenues. While the expenses of the insurance department, notwithstanding the increase of business and of administrative work incident thereto, have been reduced, and while there has been no increase in the rate of taxation, upon insurance companies since 1901, the annual state revenues from this source have increased a quarter of a million dollars, or more than one-half.

But the highest benefits can not be secured by the mere enactment of good laws. To serve their purpose in the public interest, the laws must be administered and enforced in a broad understanding of any sympathy with their spirit and intent. By such administration, the present commissioner has fully maintained the position of insurance in the front rank of Wisconsin departments. He is not again a candidate. The important work of this department should be carried forward along the lines tested and proved by experience and in accord with progressive policy of the laws. With that purpose, I shall be a candidate for the republican nomination for commissioner of insurance at the next September primary.

As a member of the assembly during the sessions of 1903 to 1907, and of the insurance investigating committee, and as deputy commissioner of insurance during the past year, I have had part in both the enactment and administration of the insurance laws. My work and my position on public questions are well known. They are my pledge to the future. HERMAN L. EKERN.

TERMINAL CASE IS HEARD IN ST. PAUL

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 23.—The St. Louis Merchants Bridge Terminal Railway company, represented by J. S. Howell and Tyson S. Dines, of St. Louis, completed its argument in the case against the United States of America, represented by P. P. Young, assistant district attorney of St. Louis, for violation of the quarantine transportation law.

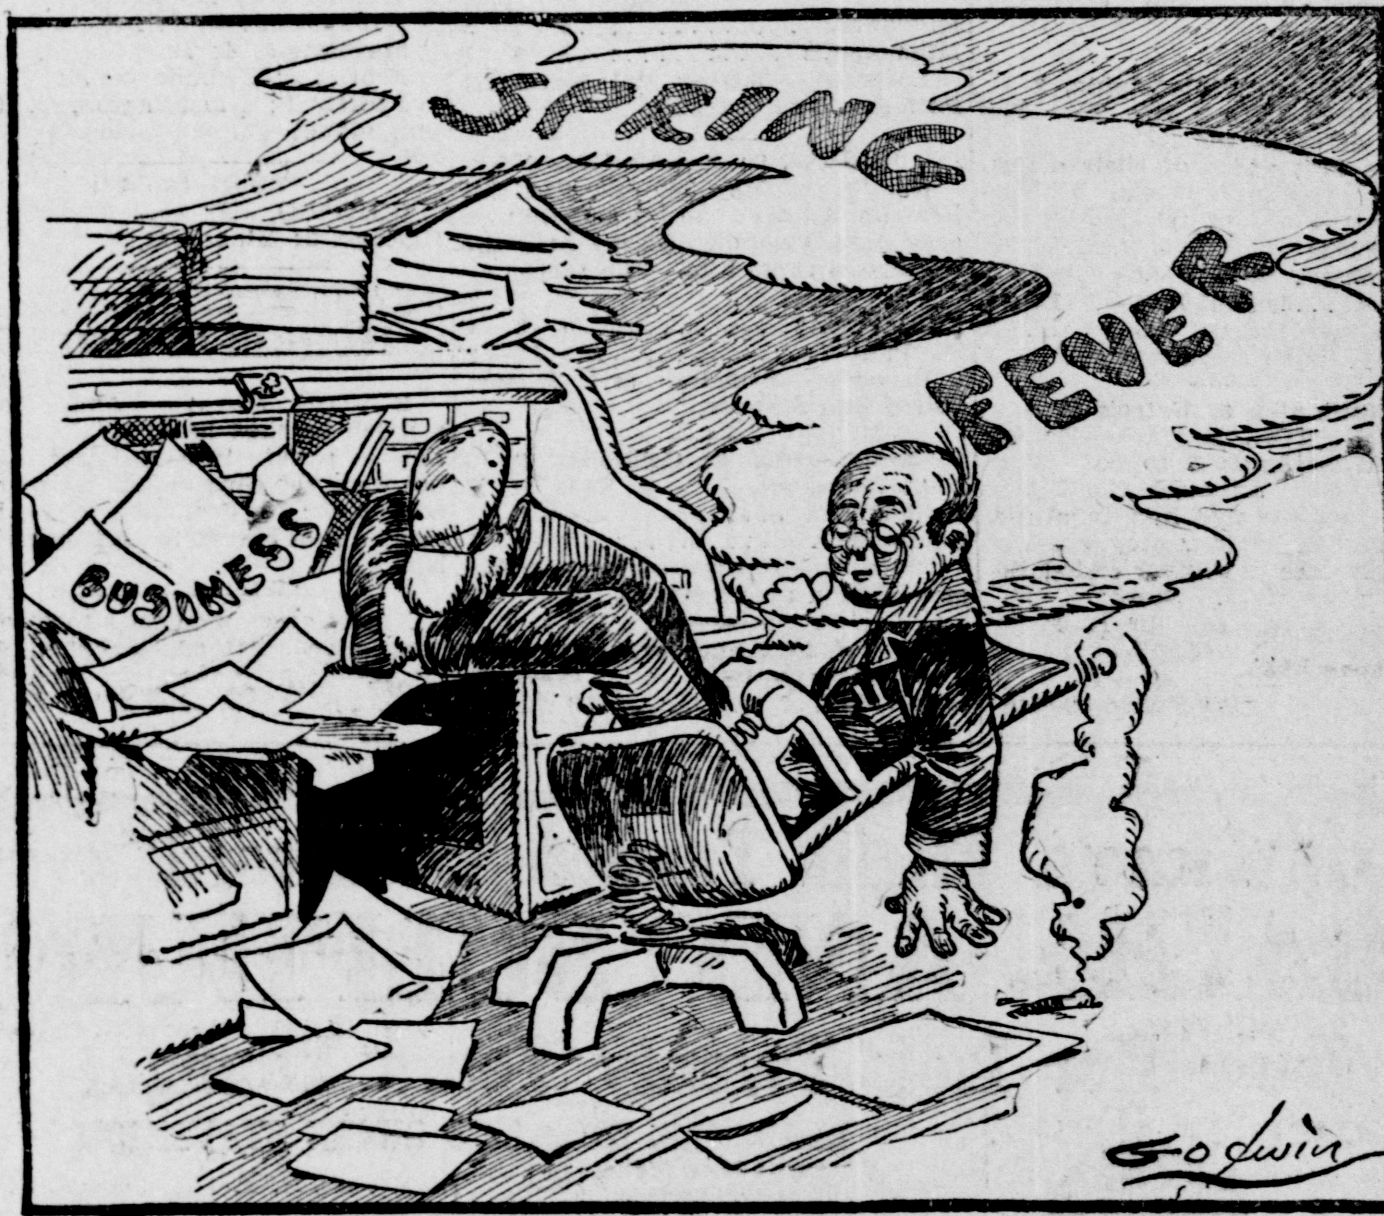

The government contended that the railroad company was guilty on five counts—willfully, knowingly and neglecting refusing to mark the cars "dipped and scabby sheep," refusing to mark the waybills in any way; refusing to mark the cars "exposed cattle"—all in violation of the rules set forth by the secretary of agriculture.

The government also claimed that the terminal company was the first to know that the cattle was infected, and it was their duty to placard the cars accordingly. Mr. Dines claimed that the terminal railroad is not running through any quarantined territory and that it does not receive for transportation and only switches cars and that no advice about the condition of the sheep was received, and in order to investigate, the sheep would be held over the 28-hour time limit of confinement and that no accommodations for penning and watering them are made, and that the offense was complete prior to their receipt of the sheep. He contended that the terminal company is no common carrier as termed in the indictment.

The case was appealed from the federal court of Missouri and now awaits the opinion of the present court.

Wealth is a good thing, but it was never intended for people to roll in.

WINONA, Minn., May 25.—In a contest, which started poorly and was deadlocked in the fourth inning, but which became a pitchers' duel, Winona was able yesterday to force in the winning run in the eighth and take the second of the series from Mike Malloy's Manufacturers by a score of 5 to 4. The cold weather had a detrimental effect in keeping the pitchers from letting out their class and as a result the first four rounds found both teams forcing in runs almost at will. JEFF TIRED OF HIS "OLD MAN'S CAMP"

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 25.—Two husky able bodied young heavy weights who can take a lot of pun-melling, can find a good job at Wardennan, acting as human punching bags for James J. Jeffries. The big fellow, spurred by the failure of the members of his "camp" to get out of the "old ladies' camp" class, is searching for some heavyweights to give him active fighting.

Jeff's decision has given the fight fans more hope than anything else he has done. The announcement that Jack Johnson and Billy Delaney were fighting with each other and that Jeff's former trainer would probably take charge of Johnson, was received with glad acclaim by the followers of the negro.

When a man calls on you and grumbles and growls, what he really desires is that you whip his enemies while he looks on from a safe distance.

Lakes, Mountains, Atlantic Coast and Canadian Provinces

Abounding beauty, rich historic interest and superb facilities for healthful out of door life characterize the resort sections of New York, New England and Canada.

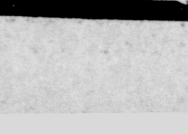

Diversity

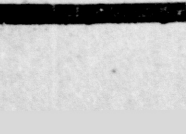

Not only of routes but also of methods of travel are offered by our summer tours. One may travel a bit by rail, then by water on a palatial steamer of the Great Lakes fleet—another stage by rail and a second opportunity to diversify the journey is afforded by trip down the St. Lawrence or Hudson River.

them. The county superintendent, then, should license all first term teachers. If the state assumes the responsibility of licensing teachers, and if it should under certain conditions, it should by all means do so. It should be after the teachers have originally been selected by the county superintendent. Of course, in such a system the state should not be authorized to license a teacher until the county superintendent has passed upon the success of the teacher as obtained from actual examination of the work in the school room.

"3. To supervise; that is, to set up some pedagogical or professional standards and in the light of these to correct errors, and to suggest better ways.

Constructive and Sympathetic
"The work of the superintendent should be constructive; it should be sympathetic. The superintendent's success can be determined quite as largely by the number of good teachers he makes of the material at hand as by the number of teachers he arbitrarily dismisses from the system with the claim that they are doing poor work.

"4. To aid in the choice of teachers, both in granting licenses and in placing them in schools which they are best prepared to teach. One of the most important duties of the county superintendent is that of helping the subordinate school officials to secure good teachers for the several schools under their supervision.

"5. To make the standard of the county as high as the best school in the county, thus making the county the unit of efficiency.

"6. To keep the schools of the county in close touch with the best thought in outside educational work and more particularly in the state.

Qualifications
"In the light of the foregoing discussion of the conditions and needs of the schools it is not difficult to understand why men and women of great ability and leadership are so much needed in these important positions.

"It goes without saying that the county superintendent of schools must have broader scholarship, larger professional training and greater zeal than any of his teachers. He must also maintain as high a standard of morality as his teachers. In fact the standard should be higher, if any difference. The county superintendent is chosen from the ranks of teachers and can be reasonably expected to uphold the honor and dignity of the calling. Any question here probably hinges upon what the standard of morality of the teachers is to be. In discussing this standard it must be remembered that the real teacher is always more, much more than the mere instructor. While consciously imparting knowledge, the teacher is unconsciously teaching infinitely more than the mere facts in the subject in hand. Imitation is one of the strongest factors in education. All unconsciously the children take in the physical bearing of the teacher, his manner of speech, his mode of dress, his way of thinking, his very character. The teacher becomes a model to the children whether he will or no. He must, therefore, possess that subtle something called personality which, by its very presence, teaches.

"Recognizing this as true, the people, almost as a matter of fact, have come to set up a higher standard of conduct for the teacher and superintendent than for others and this is perfectly proper.

An Office of Importance

"The county superintendent of schools, therefore, occupies an office of highest importance and dignity. No official in our school system or in any other department of our state or county government, has it in his power to do so much good or so much harm, for he is dealing primarily with teachers, many of them both young in years and experience, and with school children. The choice of a candidate for the position should mean that the best teacher in the community has been promoted, that he is not only teaching boys and girls, both by precept and example, but that he is a leader of men and women, a teacher of teachers. In order to succeed in this work he must have scholarship equivalent to that of a four year course in a standard college, including professional training. For such preparation and services he should receive a salary of not less than $2,000 a year.

How Selected

"In some states the township directors or trustees elect the county superintendent. In other states the state superintendent of public instruction appoints this official. It is not my intention here to suggest the best way to choose this official, but I am sure that when the superintendent is clothed with the license power, he should not be elected by the people. A man in a position of this importance should be buttressed by an appointing power of some kind that would shield him from the pressure of the voters demanding such favors as teachers' certificates in return for votes.
